To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to enthusiastically recommend Jonathan Hammann for admission to your Environmental Science Master's program. I had the privilege of working alongside him during our time at the First Special Forces Group (Airborne) where he served as a Senior Human Intelligence Collection Sergeant. During our time together Jonathan demonstrated the highest level of expertise and competence while mentoring his team of four soldiers. Jonathan let his decade of experience show every day; there were very few moments where he did not challenge his peers and subordinates to become intellectually and physically stronger.

Beyond his military service, Jonathan has continually pursued his passion for environmental science and conservation. He possesses a wealth of knowledge in biology and fisheries, which he applies with enthusiasm and creativity to address environmental challenges. One of the joys of being his coworker and friend has been the creative solutions Jonathan likes to propose for local and national environmental challenges. I have often found his perspectives refreshing and nuanced in detail.

Furthermore, Jonathan has a keen interest in U.S. history, Pacific Northwest Tribal history and is fluent in three languages besides English. This diverse skill set speaks to his intellectual curiosity, adaptability, and capacity for learning.

I have no doubt that Jonathan will excel in your program and make significant contributions to the field of environmental science. He is not only a capable and diligent lifelong learner but also a compassionate and driven individual dedicated to making a positive impact on our planet.

Please feel free to contact me if you require any further information.

Sincerely,

Jacob Sezer

Staff Sergeant, U.S. Army
