I enthusiastically recommend Cedar James Monroe for the Environmental Sciences program. Cedar's soul is fed in their encounters in the woods, deltas, and the very soil of the Earth. Cedar is interested in and has studied the plants used by Indigenous populations and can live off the land if needed.

Cedar has shown this dedication in the work they did establishing a farming program for folks who are formerly incarcerated, addicted, and/or houseless. Our mission statement for Harbor Roots Farm is "Healing the land and the people together." At Cedar's direction we have planted many native trees along with many native food-bearing plants on the farm. A walk in the woods with Cedar is a true education in native plants and how the ecosystems work at both micro and macro levels.

I have also been impressed with Cedar's ability to learn new material and then be able to share that with others in a very egalitarian format. There is no condescension-just the open sharing of information at a level that folks can understand.

Cedar would be a wonderful addition to your environmental sciences program.

Thank you,

The Reverend Boneta Campbell
