

Dear Admissions Committee:

It is with great enthusiasm that I write this letter of recommendation for Bryan Perrenod in support of his application to your graduate program. I have had the pleasure of working closely with Bryan for the last three years in my capacity as the Chair of Washington's Electric Utility Wildland Fire Prevention Committee at the Washington Department of Natural Resources(DNR). Bryan has been the Senior Secretary for the Committee during that time, and I have been continually impressed by his exceptional intellectual abilities, strong work ethic, and genuine passion in caring for our natural environment and ecosystems.

Bryan possesses a rare combination of analytical rigor and creative thinking. During a state wide project where electric utilities in Washington developed wildfire mitigation plans, he demonstrated his ability to tackle complex problems with a methodical yet innovative approach. For instance, he was able to intake and evaluate thirty-eight individual mitigation plans to ensure consistency and adherence to established statutory requirements. This was key to developing a report to the legislature about the status of utility wildfire mitigation in Washington. His capacity to synthesize information and articulate his findings was outstanding, showcasing a level of insight and professionalism beyond his peers.

Equally noteworthy is Bryan's dedication and perseverance. He consistently goes above and beyond in his pursuits, whether through independent research, collaborative projects, or professional development activities. Bryan has routinely committed his time to train for and assist with logistics during wildfire incidents managed by DNR. This relentless drive to excel not only underscores his readiness for graduate-level studies but also reflects his potential to make meaningful contributions to your program and the broader academic community.

Beyond his academic and professional skills, Bryan's interpersonal qualities are truly commendable. He is a thoughtful and empathetic collaborator, capable of building strong relationships and fostering a positive environment in group settings. His peers often look to him for guidance, and he approaches every interaction with a level of respect and maturity that sets him apart.

In summary, Bryan Perrenod exemplifies the qualities of an outstanding graduate student: intellectual curiosity, discipline, creativity, and an unwavering commitment to excellence. I am confident that he will thrive in your program and contribute significantly to its success. Please do not hesitate to contact me at lortorgy@msn.com if you require further details or insights.

Thank you for considering this exceptional candidate. I wholeheartedly support Bryan's application and look forward to seeing the remarkable achievements he will undoubtedly accomplish in the future.

Sincerely,

Loren D. Torgerson

Washington Department of Natural Resources

lortorgy@msn.com

509-680-8256