I have studied hard in the area I intend to teach in. I learned about the many and diverse histories and cultures of European settlers, African-Americans and Native Americans. The faculty was Native American, and I studied there for three years at what was then the new Evergreen State College. I studied Montessori and some Educational theory. Because I was interested in teaching, I have continued my education with the review of academic subjects. This has included mathematics, expository writing, chemistry and art.
