

AVANTI HIGH SCHOOL TUTORING:

Avanti High School was a different learning experience that I have never seen before. I personally went to traditional High Schools where an instructor would teach a class, but Avanti teaches through online websites. I felt very old when watching the students work diligently and independent while only talking only when asking for help and a few students talking the latest gossip. This style of learning definitely had the benefits of teaching the students to ask for help when they need it instead of working and getting the wrong answer and giving up. I was very interested in how the school was ran and am curious whether or not I could learn the teaching style that they teach.

OLYMPIA CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH:

With how much I have spent in the church, the most enjoyable moments I have is serving back to the youth of the church. I have a huge passion for teaching the youth kids (ages range from 14-20) and leading the praise and worship of them. An event called JaM (Jesus and Music) was one of the most fun times I had at the church where myself and another leader would teach others how to play the different instruments. Sadly, the other leaders had left for Seattle or other cities to pursue their careers after college and I am the only leader left. I keep up what I can to lead the next generation of students to become leaders of the church band and teach them how to play drums, guitar, and soon bass guitar.
