Graduate Admissions, Evergreen College

Dear Ms. Pedersen,

My name is Jennifer Eaton and I am Grace Wilson's supervisor at the Arc of Spokane. I met Grace about eight months ago and have enjoyed getting to know her. I am writing on Grace's behalf as she is seeking a Masters in Teaching from Evergreen College. Her goal is to teach advanced English at the high school level. Grace also hopes to get a certificate in teaching ESL.

Grace has a great enthusiasm for learning, is very good at research and has a vast knowledge of cultural events, pop culture and human nature. In my work with her I have observed that Grace is extremely bright with an excellent ability to solve problems and find resolutions quickly. She also has a strong work ethic, a deep love of the Classics and languages and etymology. Grace also has an expansive worldview, having grown up in Central America and is fluent in Spanish.

My personal reflection on Grace is that she is exceptionally smart, has youth and vitality but can also be described as an old soul with a well rounded understanding of humanity, socio-economics, politics and cultural events. I am often amazed by her quick assessment of events and her ability to resolve problems. I believe that Grace has the ideal attributes that will inform a new generation of educators with the ideals of social justice and cultural humility. I believe that her profound love of literature, history and her own desire to learn would make her an excellent candidate for Evergreen's Masters in Teaching program.

I believe Grace's combination of enthusiasm, commitment to learning and wide range of knowledge would make her an ideal teacher at the high school level, imparting wisdom and optimism in a world that is growing increasingly cynical. I am excited to see what she is capable of and I fully endorse her as a promising candidate for Evergreen's Teaching program!

Most Sincerely,

Jennifer Eaton
