To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to recommend Madysen for this graduate program. As the teacher supervising her, I have seen how she has excelled in her short time here in my class. She demonstrates a strong ability to develop rapport with students, while knowing when to hold firm and keep students accountable to expectations.

Madysen is willing to adapt to academic needs constantly. She takes direction well, while also advocating for her student when she detects that he is concerned about something. Every morning she brings a positive energy and calmness to the classroom.

Madysen has the strength and endurance for the physical and mental rigors that comes with a special education job. She has picked up a lot of skills, and has been a great asset to the team. I would highly recommend her, as I know her skill sets and personality will bring a lot to the educational environment. Her passion and determination are evident, and will push her through the demands of a graduate program. Madysen is a great asset to my classroom and would be a wonderful addition to your school.

Sincerely,
Paul Minor-Weeks
