To whom it may concern,

9/22/24

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation on behalf of Lily Raznick. I am an early childhood lead teacher at Seattle Waldorf School. Lily started working in my preschool class in September 2023; since then, she has assisted me in the afternoon between noon and 3 p.m. and worked until 6 p.m. in the aftercare program.

Lily's gentle demeanor and loving presence are complemented by her adaptability. Observing Lily over the past year, I see that she has made great strides in her teaching skills, although she did not have much experience when she started. She is eager to learn, takes excellent care of the children, is open to constructive feedback, and makes the necessary changes. She communicates well with children and adults and expresses herself eloquently. She is a joy to have in the classroom.

Lily had health challenges last year and had to miss many days at school. She understands that this impacts the children, teachers, and school and is committed to taking diligent care of her health so she can be present at work.

I am recommending Lily Raznick to your Master's in Teaching program.

Warmest regards,

Myriam Weimerskirch
Lead teacher
