MPA STUDENT, CLASS 2016

The MPA program continues to meet the needs of students by giving them broad choices not only in the concentration areas, but also in the length of time to complete the program. Some students choose to complete the program within two years, while others may choose three to four years. To meet the needs of working students, classes meet in the evening, on Saturdays and in intensive weekend formats. The Core sequence for all students is as follows:

MPA STUDENT, CLASS 2016

- Linda Moon Stumpff worked on several projects this year;
 - o Completed work, with Barbara Smith on a new NSF grant. A new one is in the works. Currently they have identified the partner institutions and completed initial planning and meetings to implement the grant. Next year Linda will continue in her role as Co-Director with Barbara Smith in the administration of the grant.
 - o Awarded a grant from the federal fire services through the Rocky Mountain Interagency Institute: she will be researching on how to include traditional ecological knowledge on fire and climate change in the West into administrative fire planning.
 - o An article coming out in August in Park Science.
 - o Received acceptance of an article on Ecosystem Services and Water that will be coming out in fall in the International Journal of Wilderness.
 - o Linda is initiating talks with the Ford Foundation on arts administration and case-writing as part of a grant with the Longhouse.
 - o This summer she was invited to a planning conference on Cases at SUNY Buffalo, NY.

- Alan Parker retired this past year. However, he will continue to teach Pathways to Sovereignty class on a post-retirement contract with John gates. Alan's other main project that will keep him busy is...

- o Focusing on the Tribal PhD program with the students who have met with the Maori Indigenous University last April. Approx 28 students from the TESC MPA Tribal programs of 2002 thru 2012 have expressed serious interest when they met with the head of their graduate studies program in Lummi, Tulalip, Muckleshoot and Tacoma April 17-19. The Lummi Nation Service Organization, LNSO, has been awarded 501 c (3) status by the IRS and they have agreed to serve as the fiscal agent for the funds that they are requesting from the tribes to support these students. Alan has assisted the LNSO in designing the funding requests. He will serve as Adjunct faculty to the Maori Indigenous University to provide support and direction to the Tribal PhD students. The Maori plan to initiate the program in January 2013 with a 10 session in New Zealand with the first cohort of 15 Tribal Students.
- o With undergraduate faculty member Zoltan Grossman, Alan completed a book on the impact of climate change on Pacific Rim indigenous groups, published by Oregon State University Press last spring.

- John Gates
 - o With Cheryl King together serving as co-leaders of the TESC MPA Green Team, he provided support to the Canoe Journeys, Paddle to Squaxin 2012, arriving in Olympia this summer. The Green Team is committed to producing as environmentally clean an event as possible where thousands are expected to attend the week's protocol activities on the reservation. In this, he has attended numerous planning meeting at Squaxin Tribal Headquarters.
 - o Brought in guest speakers to both the general and tribal cohorts to share their experience in conducting on the ground scientific research in diverse populations.
 - o Worked collaboratively with other Evergreen faculty, the President's Diversity Committee, and with the MPA program to secure travel funding and a modest honorarium for our guests.
- Lee Lyttle besides tending to the administrative tasks of the MPA program is working with Thurston County and number of community groups on acquiring and preserving the Monarch Sculpture Park in the south part of the county.
