Tina Kuckkahn-Miller (kuckkaht@evergreen.edu, (360) 867-5344

MEETS: Friday, February 12th (5-9); Saturday, February 13th (9-5) & Sunday, February 14th (9-5).

Sem II, E3109

This course will provide an overview of fund development strategies for cultural and heritage resources. Content will include how to research and make application to a diverse array of funding sources, including federal, state, tribal, and private funding sources. The course will also explore key elements to building collaborative partnerships and financial accountability to funding sources. Although course content will not be limited to work in the non-profit sector, the course will include aspects of non-profit development that can apply across a wide spectrum of public service work, including program development and implementation, and working with volunteer boards. Students will identify a project, research potential funders, draft a case statement, letter of inquiry, and grant application for a fictitious or real-life project.

Introduction

• Defining organizational mission and goals:

Defining mission:

Mission is a statement of values, a statement of the organization's reason for being. ID's the needs and explains why the needs should be addressed

Mission v goals v objectives:

Goals: What is it you want to accomplish? Given mission, what will you do about it?

Objectives: How do you intend to accomplish your goals achieving WHAT measurable objectives?

• Developing the case statement:

- What is the issue to be addressed?
- How do you know there is a need?
- How urgent is the need compared to other issues?
- Who else agrees this is a problem worth addressing?
- Why should this be addressed at this point in time?
- Who will benefit?Describe target audience
- What special program or service of the organization can respond to it?
- Why are you best suited to do this work?
