

BOOK LECTURE

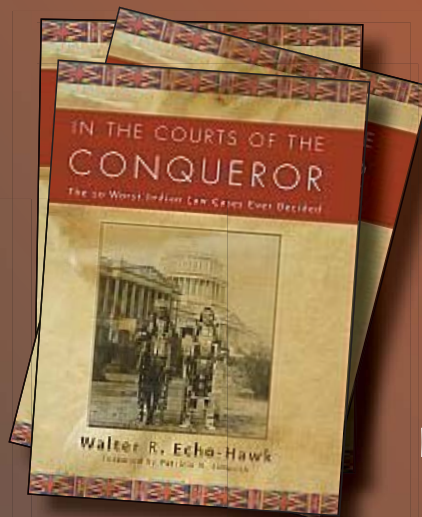

IN THE COURTS OF THE CONQUEROR:

The 10 Worst Indian Law Cases Ever Decided

by Walter R. Echo-Hawk

Saturday, February 4th, at 1:30 pm in the LONGHOUSE at
The Evergreen State College

FREE Public Event!

Walter Echo-Hawk (Pawnee) is a Native American speaker, author, and attorney. Throughout his distinguished legal career, he has worked to protect the legal, political, property, cultural, and human rights of Indian tribes and Native peoples.

REVIEWS

In the Courts of the Conqueror should be required reading for all Americans who care about the inherent human rights of religious and political freedom
--Phil Cousineau, author of The Art of Pilgrimage

In the Courts of the Conqueror is written with such passion, wit, and candor that I literally can't put this book down.
--Louise Erdrich, novelist and poet

FMI contact Tina Kuckkahn-Miller at (360) 867-5344 or email kuckkaht@evergreen.edu

Sponsored by the Longhouse, Reservation-based/Community-Determined program, Master in Public Administration, the Native City program, the Native Student Alliance and the Justice program. In partnership with the Plateau Center for American Indian Studies at Washington State University