

American Indian Endowed Scholarship

Applications are due to the HECB postmarked by February 1.

Application Information Sheet

Read the entire information sheet before completing the application. Print a copy for your records.

How does the scholarship program work?

This program provides scholarships on a competitive basis to outstanding students with close social and cultural ties to an American Indian tribe. Recipients are selected on the basis of academic merit and a commitment to serve the American Indian community in the state of Washington. Scholarships are awarded from the interest earnings of an endowment established from funds appropriated by the Washington State Legislature with matching contributions from tribes, individuals, and organizations.

Who is eligible to apply?

To be eligible, you must meet the following criteria:

- > Have close social and cultural ties to an American Indian tribe or American Indian community in Washington.
- > Agree to use your education to benefit other American Indians.
- > Have demonstrated financial need (as determined by the college financial aid office).
- > Be a Washington State resident.
- > Be enrolled or intend to enroll as a full-time student at an eligible Washington college or university by fall term of the award year you are applying for funding (selection priority is given to upper division and graduate students, but all applicants are considered).
- > Not be pursuing a degree in theology.
- > Have not received five years of this scholarship in total.

How do I apply for the scholarship?

- > Complete the attached application or submit a hard copy of the completed electronic version of the form. The electronic application is available on the HECB Web site at <http://www.hecb.wa.gov/paying/waaidprgm/aies.asp> (requires Adobe Acrobat Reader Version 9.0 or newer software which is downloadable for free from www.Adobe.com).
- > Apply for state and federal need-based financial aid at the college or university you will attend next academic year. Financial aid applications are available at your school's student aid office or on-line at www.fafsa.ed.gov. Financial need is among the criteria for selection as a scholarship recipient.
- > Prepare two separate, detailed statements, describing:
 - (1) Your social and cultural ties to an American Indian community in Washington. If your original ties are to an out-of-state tribal community, include an additional brief description of the close social and cultural ties you have established to the Native community here in Washington state during your residency.
 - (2) How you will serve an American Indian community upon completing your degree.
- > Submit academic transcripts for coursework from the last five-year period. Include a high school transcript (or a copy of your GED test scores) if you have less than two years of college. Official or copies of official transcripts will suffice.
- > Obtain recommendation letters from three or more people who are not members of your immediate family. At least one recommendation must address your personal commitment to serve the American Indian community in Washington. A minimum of two recommendations must verify your close social and cultural ties to an American Indian tribe or community in Washington.
- > Submit all application materials as a single, complete package to the Higher Education Coordinating Board.

American Indian Endowed Scholarship

How are recipients selected?

The Board awards these scholarships on a competitive basis. Selection criteria emphasize the applicant's documented commitment to return service to the state's American Indian community. Additional criteria include academic merit and a priority for upper division and graduate students. A selection committee comprised of representatives from the state's American Indian and higher education communities will review applications and select recipients.

How much will I receive if I am selected?

Historically, the scholarships have been awards of $500 - $2,000 each for one academic year. The program advisory committee sets the number and value of awards each year after reviewing endowment interest earnings from the previous year. Renewal awards are available at the discretion of the committee following satisfactory review of the renewal application. Recipients may receive a maximum of five academic years of scholarship assistance through this program in total. A recipient's award will not exceed his/her financial need as calculated by the institution's student aid office. In some cases, the scholarship may be adjusted to prevent conflict with the receipt of other student financial aid grants. The recipient must be enrolled as a full-time student at a college or university in Washington at the time of scholarship disbursement. Funds are disbursed once each academic term through the recipient's college.

Postmark your application no later than February 1.
(Late or incomplete applications are not considered.)
